MPROVEMENT IN BANKING CIRCLES

FALL TRADE IS BEGINNING

bbers Already Feel That Season Is Drawing Near and Volume of Business Grows.

The situation in banking circles shows sistinct improvement, more optimfeeling pervading the monetary in financial matters, not only scally, but through the country at This is due to a more definite nformation regarding the crops which ire showing up much better than was apparent some weeks ago. While it is rue that the wheat crop is shorter by memon,000 bushels than the harvest of 1909, yet it is up to the average of the mm 10 years. To offset this shortage, the estimate s now that the corn crop will run up to 3,000,000,000 bushels, making 275,000. more than last year. The oat crop also shows an increase of 200,000,000 bushels above the average of the last p years. These figures entirely justify more optimistic feeling obtaining in fnancial circles. It is quite probable that local rates of interest may remain a little stiff, but money will be in sufent quantities to satisfy entirely gitmate demands. There will not, wever, be enough for speculative pur-ses. The bank clearings continue to 1 off. This is explained by one bank due to lack of money with o transact all the business de-ich deficiencies being due to the nounts of money sent out of the to pay for construction ma-

The lines of woolens represented are W. Bianchi & Co., exclusive importations and J. R. Keim & Co., "Shackamaxon" guaranteed fabrics, exclusive to the merchant tailor.

Every garment is designed by Mr. R. N. Davis, their cutter, and made by men of high class tallering skill.

Their work-rooms, up-to-date in equipment, are the most complete in the inter-mountain section.

The business is managed by Mr. J. D. Hagman who is well known leading tailor of this city.

LUMBER.

The lumber trade reports prices as having fallen so low that they cannot well go lower, and there is no indication of any change. Dealers have loaded up to the full, and as the yards are not at present sending much stuff out, they will be well supplied for a long time. Shipments are slow from the coast, particularly from the Portland market, so it seems at times almost impossible to get stock through. The railroads do not appear able to give any reasonable explanation, further than that delays en route seem inevitable. The cement market is easier, so the mills are able to give their patrons reasonable service. Collections in the lumber trade are reported poor, with a general complaint that it is hard to get money.

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS.

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS.

The wholesale dry goods trade reports heavy local shipment of fall stuffs to the minor jobbers and retailers through this section, the goods sent out being mostly blankets, dress goods, ginghams and cottons. Prices on cottons continue quite strong. Jobbers generally report it difficult to get dress goods buyers to decide on the question of 1911 spring fabrics, a situation attributed to the garment makers' strike in New York. In nearly every agency and commission house two or three fabrics are found to be heavy sellers while other lines are light. As an evidence of the trend of business some jobbers report a full share of business on voiles, panamas and chiffon broadcloths. On lines of cloaking business is generally slow. Late repeat orders on 1916 fall dress goods and cloakings are coming to hand from a wide range of territory. Agents believe they will close the season with their heavyweight lines well cleaned up. RETAIL DRY GCODS.

The retail dry goods trade reports a fair week, no complaint. Escalers say they are holding their own, and considering the extraordinary business of a year ago, better trade could hardly be expected. New millinery is being displayed to a moderate extent, mostly in small shapes—which gives rise to the hope that the days of the big hat are about ended. A further and more extensive display of fall millinery will come a little later. People are buying at present fancy goods, novelties, notions, underwear to plece out for the rest of the warm season.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Asserting that he had been hampered in every way possible in his efforts to uphold the laws of his state against the sale of food containing benzoate of sods and announcing that he would appeal to President Taft, Atty.-Gen. "The state of Indiana, which is seeking evidence in its defense against the suit brought by food manufacturers because Indiana prohibits the sale of foods containing benzoate of soda as a preservative, has received a 'raw deal' from the department of agriculture," declared Atty.-Gen. Bingham.

"I intend to make a report of the matter to Secy. Wilson of the department of agriculture and to take the matter to President Taft himself.

"When I applied to the department of agriculture to send Dr. Wiley and his assistants to Indiana to testify, the request was refused. Yet the department of agricultured and requested the members of the Remsen board and their assistants to testify in the case against Indiana.

"The department said if I wanted the testimony of Dr. Wiley and his assistants I would have to come here and get it. When we came here the department, with Acting Secy. Hays at its head, informed us that we would have to get a court order to compel the experts to testify. In the court the department was represented by counsel to prevent our getting this testimony. But the court decided in our favor.

"I have applied for the original documents on file in the department dealing with the investigation of benzoate of soda, and was told that I would have to have a court order for these, too."

Later in the day the documents demanded by Atty. Bingham were furnished by the department of agriculture.

CONTRACTS GALORE

Had Half a Dozen With the Indians. All Covering the Same Period of Time.

HIS FIRM THE WHOLE THING

Hardly an Act Was Passed by Their Tribal Councils Without Its Consent.

Sulphur, Okla., Aug. 19.-It was brought out in the testimony of J. F. McMurray before the congressional committee investigating Indian affairs today that he held as many as half a dozen contracts with the Indians for legal services, all covering the same period of time.

Mr. McMurray testified, under questioning, that for general services he had two contracts with the Chickasaws, about $5,000 a year each, two with the Choctaws at $5,000 a year each, another contract for special services at a fee of $15,000, only $3,000 of which was paid, a yearly expense allowance of $2,700 under one contract and other general expenses amounting to $180,000. All of this money was in addition to the $750,000 allowed his law firm as a contingent fee in what are known a the citizenship cases, and in addition, also, to the contracts by which he now seeks to obtain 10 per cent, or $3,000,000, as a contingent fee on the sale of $30,000,000 worth of asphalt and coal

"How is it that while having so many contracts to represent the Inmany contracts to represent the Indians generally on regular salaries you got a special contract on a contingent fee basis every time any special case hobbed up?" asked Representative E. W. Saunders of Virginia, a member of the committee. "Isn't it strange that the Indians had to sign so many contracts in order to get their affairs straightened out when the government was supposed to look after a great part of that work?"

M'MURRAY'S FIRM IT.

Mr. McMurray replied that he had been identified with the Indians for so many years they had come to look to him to take care of their legal affairs. him to take care of their legal affairs. He said hardly an act nad been passed by their tribal councils without the sanction of his legal firm. Many of the expense allowances, the witness said, had been collected by him without the knowledge of the department of the interior. Also, he said, many acts passed by the tribal legislature were not submitted to the president of the United States as, it was asserted, was required.

States as, it was asserted, was required.

Asked by Representative Miller of Minnesota whether his work had not tended to lead the Indians away from a close relationship with the government. Mr. McMurray said he always had done his utmost to bring the Indians and the government together. It was also shown that the Indians had employed other attorneys besides McMurray, each tribe paying $5,000 a year and one of the tribes $12,000 a year for special counsel.

How much money in the aggregate the Indians have pledged themselves to pay for attorneys has not yet been determined by the committee. McMurray is to be questioned rurther tomorrow.
